To Anti-Saloon League of America

ZONE TWO

Sale Library July 1919

While the brewers and distillers are stiffening their lines of defense at every point and are marshalling the greatest legal talent which their money can buy to defeat War Time and National Prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League of America is preparing to hold one of its largest and most important Conventions.

It is indeed appropriate that the Convention should be held in the dry capital of what is soon to be the largest dry nation of the world.

Arrangements have been made for the use of the Billy Sunday Tabernacle as the meeting place of the Convention. This tabernacle located near the entrance to the palatial Union Railway Station and having a seating capacity of 2,000 will afford adequate accommodations for the throngs which will attend this gathering of Prohibition hosts.

Already the National League of officers have been notified of the prospective attendance of delegates from fifty different countries. The presence of these delegates will lend an international aspect to the Convention, and will signify the rapid awakening of foreign countries to the amazing progress made by the Anti-Saloon League. They are coming to see the dry sections of America and to hear how the battle has been so successfully waged. They are coming for the purpose of appealing to the Christian forces of dry America to aid them in carrying on a successful movement in their own countries.

A recent anti-alcohol conference in the city of Paris fully demonstrated that the Anti-Saloon League is recognized as one of the most important factors in the success of the World-Wide Prohibition movement. It is, therefore, opportune that the convention should be held in our capital city at this time and that the delegates should get at first hand the success of Prohibition.

Make your plans to be in Washington, D. C. June 4th, 5th and 6th.

Because of the distinguished visitors and delegates who will attend from all the larger and more important countries, including probably fifty different nations of the world.

Because this momentous event will register the advance of National Prohibition and will be one of the mile posts marking the path of progress of the International Anti-Alcohol movement.

Because Washington D. C. as the largest dry capital of the world, presents an unusual opportunity to study the effects of Prohibition in large centers.

Because you will enjoy the city with its varied and historic environs.

Because Congress will possibly be sitting in a special session in June for the consideration of the World Peace Treaty, the League of Nations Constitution and other important legislation.

Because it will afford a rare opportunity to those actively interested in the success of the National and World-Wide Prohibition Program.

This is YOUR opportunity.

Yours very sincerely,
The Anti-Saloon League of America.

Annual Call

Of the Democratic County Committee by the Chairman.

The rules of the Democratic party require the members of the Democratic County Committee to meet on the first Monday of June of each year to elect a chairman, treasurer, two secretaries and five members of the executive committee and to transact such other business as the convention may see fit and proper.

By virtue of these rules, therefore, the Democratic County Committee is called to meet in the Court House, in Bedford, Pa. on Monday the second day of June A. D. 1919, at 1:30 o'clock P. M. for the purposes named at this call.

Yours very truly,
EMORY D. CLAAR,
Chairman Democratic County Committee

LOCAL BOSS GOT FLOUNCED

Last Monday evening the school board filled up with a complete board by electing Messrs. Rush Lit-zinger and Charles Koontz as appointed members. William Brice, Jr. local political boss for a few Democrats and a few Republicans had himself presented by his own brother-in-law, William Beam, but only got one vote, that of his brother-in-law. That is one instance in which Brice got a good flouncing. He has begun to think that he can run the town and fell down on the small office of school director. All sticks possible were worked but to no avail and Bill had to take his trouncing.

Seems To.

Food for thought only gives some people mental indigestion.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Burleson Receives Bale Of Kicks

Faced by a trunk full of complaints on the rural mail service Postmaster General Burleson declared that he had no apology to make. He declared that the growth of the parcel post business from 33 million pieces in 1914 to two billion pieces last year and the fact that five million more rural people receive mail service then formerly was the reason.

Luxury Tax To Go Off Soon

Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee announced in the House of Representatives that Committee hearings will be held soon "with the view of a complete revision of the tariff. Preceding these hearings, he said, the committee would begin next week to consider the repeal of the various consumption taxes.

Representative J. Hampton Moore republican member of the committee introduced a resolution to repeal the section of the Kitchen revenue law commonly known as the luxury section. It pertains to the 10 per cent tax on excess prices of certain articles. This section could not be taken out in conference. It was allowed to remain in the bill after the necessity for it seemed to have passed, because it was impossible under the rules to take it out without affecting the passage of the bill.

The measure was passed by the House in less than an hour and the Senate passed it without debate or amendment.

The first sharp clashes of the session between republicans and democrats came when the big bill came up in the House. Representative Mann, former republican leader, blamed President Wilson for the hardships that resulted in soldiers families through failure to receive their checks as usual, claiming he should have called the extra session earlier. House democrats defended the President and put the blame on the Senate filibuster.

For the first time in the history of the Chautauqua movement, the smaller cities and towns will be privileged to witness grand opera as it is sung and presented in the larger cities. The National Lincoln Chautauqua presents to the public one of America's great grand opera stars, Louis Kreidler, who has been a member of the Century Opera Company, New York City; Metropolitan Opera Company, New York City, and Chicago Opera Company, Chicago, Ill. The New York Times says: "Mr. Kreidler, as Athanael, was deserving of much credit for his sincere and skillful impersonation as well as for his excellent singing." The New York Evening Mail, in speaking of the role of Sebastiano, writes: "It would be difficult to conceive of a better type for Sebastiano than Mr. Kreidler, who seemed purely Latin in psychology. His voice, diction, and easy presence contributed everything that made for his success in the part." The Chicago Daily Journal says: "The best performance of the evening was given by Louis Kreidler in the role of Marcel. Here was some really big singing. It was indeed a pleasure to hear the resonance, clarity and authority with which he invested the music which fell to his part. He can also claim a human appeal to his conception of the character."

Mr. Kreidler will be assisted by Miss Erle Wortham, soprano, a native of Texas and who received her vocal training in Boston and later in Chicago under the direction of Louis Kreidler. Her work has already received recognition and recommendation of Maestro Gamparini of the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

Samuel Hungerford, violinist, toured the country on different occasions as "The Boy Wonder." He has now outgrown the boy, but has added much to his art under the tutelage of Harry Weissbach, concert master of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Maryalise Ross is one of the most versatile pianists before the public today. She comes from Georgia and has devoted much of her time as a teacher in one of the largest music schools of the South.

Mr. Kreidler and this group of artists will sing popular arias from the operas "Carmen," "Thais," "Traviata" and "Pagliacci."

Hundreds of dollars have been spent for scenery and special curtains in the presentation of these operas. Remember the fourth day in the evening.

SMITH-SPRING-HOLMES ORCHESTRAL QUINTET.

THE COMPANY GREATEST.

This company gives a program of the greatest variety of any company in the Chautauqua field. Every number is different. Their instrumentation is so varied that one selection on each instrument, or combination of instruments is all that can be crowded into one program, with the exception of the ensemble, which appears at least three times. Not only do these artists excel along instrumental lines, they are noted for their versatility, their program also including a dramatic reading. The Smith-Spring-Holmes people know the art of program building and how to please discriminating audiences. Hear this splendid company at the Chautauqua.

Mexico's Capital City.

Mexico City, the capital of Mexico, is a town of some historic interest, while its cathedral is regarded as the handsomest church on the American continent. The foundation stone of this edifice was laid in 1593 on the site of a former heathen temple. The national museum is filled with treasures of Aztec civilization, and various memorials of the hapless Maximilian and the beautiful Carlotta lend a luster to this attractive city. The climate is good and the population about 471,000, many of whom are Americans and Germans.

Many Funny Things.

Ever see a dog limp when his tail is stepped on? Ever see the wise man of the village get out on a limb and saw it off? Ever see grandpas lead two frisky calves out to the lot? Ever see a book agent trying to get over a barb wire fence quick before the bull got there? Oh, yes, there are lots of funny things besides owning a goat, or being one.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

Comfortable Homes Help.

The better farm home is not a panacea for all ills of dissatisfaction with farm life. There will be farm boys and farm girls who will want to take up other professions than tilling the soil. The problem, says the department of agriculture, is not to force them to stay on the farm, but to make conditions good enough there that they may make an intelligent choice.

"The Telephone Rang."

"And the telephone rang!" is the burden of some verses read lately, describing all the things that happened and didn't happen in consequence. The way one woman escaped wearisome trips up and downstairs in response to "phone calls was by using a desk telephone with a very long cord. Then she took the telephone upstairs, downstairs, or on the gallery, wherever she happened to be. When the bell rang the interruption was at least close at hand.

FOLKS are a heap like tobaccos. Thar's hot-headed, bitey folks. Thar's flat, uninterestin' folks. An' then thar's folks like Velvet—mild, but hearty an' fren'ly, too.

Velvet Joe

"Friendly" is a very good word to describe the tobacco pleasing quality that sets VELVET apart.

There is that indescribable something about VELVET that is associated in men's minds with the thought of a friend.

It is a satisfying smoke—never harsh; without a bite. Like a friend it "agrees" with you no matter how much you use it.

Long, patient ageing—in wooden hogsheads—does it. Friendship must ripen slowly. Good tobacco the same way. An army of men have learned this through VELVET.

Today is a good time to get a lot of comfort out of a pipeful of friendly VELVET.

Even Pictures Sometimes Deceive

Father discovers within the depths of the mail order catalogue a gas water heater that looks exactly similar to that offered by the home town gas man and promptly forwards the price, which is slightly less than that offered by the home dealer. The heater arrives and father proceeds to erect it. After hours of laborious effort he fails and is finally forced to humiliate himself by calling upon the home gas man for assistance, a fact he failed to consider before sending away his money to the mail order house, but which feature is now deeply impressed upon him. The gas man, upon his arrival, finds a heater identical in appearance with his offering but vastly inferior in material and workmanship. He recognizes it as a "second" or "third", points out the shortcomings of the imperfect heater and shows the victim wherein the mail order concern misrepresented the merits of the construction.

The Motor Lady

By ROSALIE FAVIER

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Thompson crawled from under the car, his face, hands and clothes streaked with a combination of perspiration, tar, gravel and grease that bespoke doom for the light gray trousers, and a visit to the manicure for the hands. And worst of all, the automobile still refused to budge!

"I give up!" groaned Thompson, sinking despondently on the grass. "The blame thing won't go, and that's all there is to it."

"Never say die," cautioned a voice at his elbow. "Faint heart never won over a stubborn motorcar."

"My dear young lady"—Thompson hurriedly drew his grimy handkerchief over his face, and tried anxiously to find the part in his tousled hair—"Just at present I haven't any heart at all, after all I have been through."

"What have you done?"

"Well," he began, "I looked to see if I had any gasoline."

"That was clever of you," smiled the girl. "So many men would knock an engine to pieces first, and discover an empty gasoline can later. Is there water in the radiator?"

"Yup!"

"Car well oiled?"

"Certainly."

"How are the spark plugs? A cracked one will cause no end of trouble, you know."

The man gulped. Evidently she did know a little about motors. "No," he said, "the plugs are all right. Besides, if one of them was broken the engine would have given warning; it wouldn't have stopped dead."

"It's your ignition!" Beth squinted her eyes, deep in thought. "There is a wire loose somewhere."

"There is not!" Thompson cried emphatically. "I've followed every blame wire up, and they are all O. K."

"Then I know just what the trouble is. Your timer is dirty."

"Just wipe it over and the car will run with ease," flattered Beth, her eyes twinkling merrily. "And, so long."

On the way to the village, for he started a few minutes later, Thompson speculated on who the "Motor Lady" might be, and why she had hurried away so quickly. He was thinking of her when he stored the car away in the hotel garage, and engaged his room for the night. He even sat on the veranda to watch all the women that passed, hoping that she would pass, too.

When night came hope fled. He was in town for the one night only, to sell tires to the E. B. Sterns Garage company, and would leave for the next big town directly after breakfast.

He strode up and down the long corridor puffing thoughtfully at his cigar, waiting for the manager of the garage, who had arranged to meet him that evening. At eight o'clock on the minute the call boy motioned to the restless man. "E. B. Sterns is out on the veranda waiting for you, sir."

Thompson threw away his cigar. His mind was wandering and he needed to concentrate, for the Sterns people were customers he wanted to secure. He hurried out. A slender figure rose from a rocker to meet him.

"Good morning, Mr. Thompson."

"Yes," Thompson hesitated. "Sorry I can't stop, but I have a pressing engagement just now."

"I know—with me," laughed the girl. "I am E. B. Sterns. You wish to interest me in a certain make of tire. I have a full stock of shoes on hand just now, so you will have to do some talking to make me buy."

Thompson thought of his afternoon's plight; he noticed the twinkle in Beth's eyes; he made up his mind to "win or die!" So he talked. Fabric, durability, strength, flexibility, reliability, mileage. Never before had any tire been so lauded to the skies. He talked till his throat was sore, and continued till his voice was husky and he panted for breath; and he did not cease until she lifted her hand in protest. Instead of saying, "I'll take a hundred on trial," she asked: "Mr. Thompson, what is your salary?"

Thompson was too surprised to say anything but the truth—"Thirty per."

"I'll give you forty, if you care to work in my garage."

"You mean that? Why, you don't know me from Adam."

"I know that you are a good salesman, and also a gentleman. There's nobody in town that can help me in the garage, and since my brothers went to war I can't handle the place alone. I need help, and I have liked your manner towards me ever since we met. Will you accept?"

It was some 12 months later when a large touring car came to a halt along the roadside, and an athletic young man turned to the woman beside him. "Now what's the matter? Going to play tricks on us, just as we are starting off on our honeymoon, is it? I call this tough luck."

"So do I for your new suit. What do you think is wrong?"

"I don't know. I paid special attention to every blame part of the car this morning. Honest I did, Beth," he exclaimed, as the girl laughed merrily.

"Except to the oil which you poured everywhere in your excitement. I suppose a man is liable to lose his head on his wedding day, Sweetheart."

Beth leaned over and kissed the wrinkled brow. "Cheer up, it's only that your timer is dirty."

POULTRY FACTS

CHICKS REARED IN BROODERS

No System Ideal for All Conditions—Success Depends on Individual Handling.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

More difference of opinion exists as to the value of brooding systems than in any other part of poultry rearing, which shows that no system is ideal for all conditions, but that success depends largely on individual handling and care. Many failures in brooding are due to weak chicks which may be traced to faulty incubation or weakness in breeding stock. Successful chick raising depends primarily upon having healthy, vigorous breeding stock.

Some of the most important faults in the management of brooders are overcrowding and lack of ventilation, while the chicks fail to get sufficient exercise. The brooder should supply the proper temperature, be readily adapted to change in weather conditions, be easy to clean and well ventilated. The capacity should not be overestimated. One-half to two-thirds of the number of chickens commonly advised will do much better than a larger number. Brooders and hovers should have from one-half to two inches of sand, dry dirt, cut clover or chaff spread over the floor, and in case they are kept in the brooder house, over the floor of this also. The hovers should be cleaned frequently, as cleanliness is essential in raising chickens successfully.

The best temperature at which to keep a brooder or hover depends upon the position of the thermometer, the style of the hover, the age of the chickens, and the weather conditions. Aim to keep the chickens comfortable. As the operator learns by the action of the chickens the amount of heat they require, he can discard the thermometer if he desires. When too cold they will crowd together and try to get nearer the heat. If it is found in the morning that the droppings are well scattered over the hover it is an indication that the chickens have had enough heat. If the chickens are comfortable at night they will be spread out under the hover with the heads of some protruding from under the hover cloth. Too much heat will cause them to pant and sit around with their mouths open.

It is impossible to state for each case at what temperature the brooders should be kept to raise young chickens; however, it will run from 80 up to 100 degrees in some cases, as some broods of chickens seem to require more heat than others, an average being 93 to 95 degrees for the first week or ten days, when the temperature is gradually reduced to 85 degrees for the following ten days, and then lowered to 70 or 75 degrees for as long as the chickens need heat. This depends somewhat on the season of the year and the number of the chickens, as it can be readily seen that the heat generated by 50 chickens would raise the temperature under the hover to a higher degree than the heat given off by a lesser number, consequently the amount of heat furnished by the lamp or stove will have to be regulated accordingly. As the chickens grow larger and need less heat the lamps may be used only at night, and later only on cold nights. The heat is usually cut off at the end of four or five weeks in March or April in the vicinity of Washington, D. C., while winter chickens have heat for eight or ten weeks, or until they are well feathered. Care should be taken to prevent chilling or overheating the chickens, which weakens them and may result in bowel trouble.

When chickens are first put into the brooder they should be confined under or around the hover by placing a board or wire frame a few inches outside (this would not apply to the small outdoor colony brooders).

POULTRY NOTES

Ducks need the grit for their digestion just as chickens do.

Clean houses, nests, runs, drinking and feeding vessels are important.

Old hens that are not needed for breeders should be fattened and marketed.

There is still a good demand for capons, and all on hand should be marketed.

You should have tight coops for the hens and chickens to prevent rats, weasels and skunks from getting in nights and killing little chickens.

The Heel of Achilles in Tires

The weak spot in a tire is where tread stops and sidewall begins.

On any road but smooth, flat pavement, the spears of the road—stones and broken rock—are constantly jabbing at this Heel of Achilles. And the sides of wagon tracks, when you ride ruts, grind wickedly at vulnerable spots.

Your eyesight tells you that. Now look at the SAFETY TREAD of Goodrich Tires. See how it spreads the Goodrich interlocking safety bars beyond the ball of the tire, and lays extra tread rubber along the sidewall.

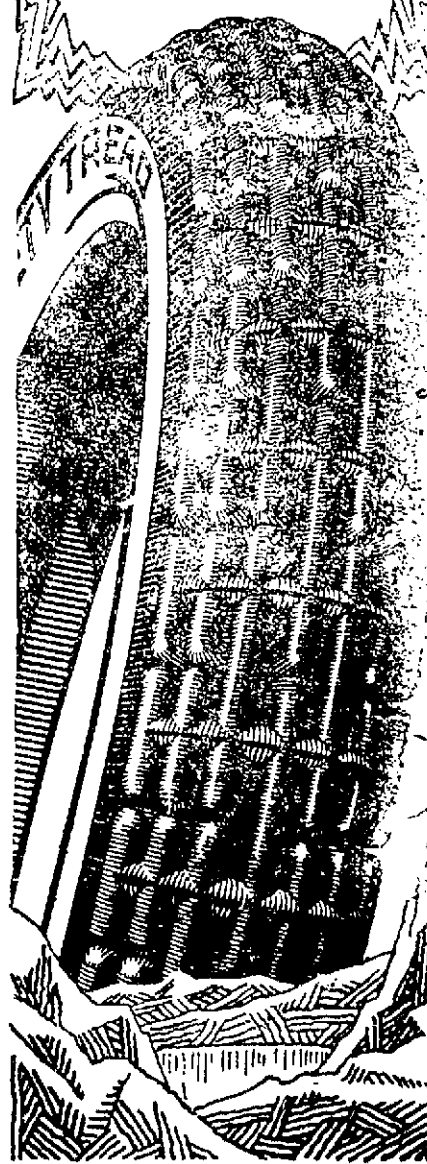

Notice further, how the extrawidetread carries on up the sides of the tire, extending beneath the sidestrips.

Thus an extra thickness of tough tread rubber fortifies Goodrich Tires at the Heel of Achilles.

Remember, that is one of the many reasons why Goodrich Tires lead in mileage over all roads, rough or smooth.

NO ONE SUFFERED HERE.

The marvel of our voluntary food-saving, now that we are "getting results," is that no one ever actually suffered any hardship from it; that we all are better in health and spirit and better satisfied with ourselves because of our friendly self-denial.

Food control in America held the price of breadstuffs steady, prevented vicious speculation and extortion and preserved tranquillity at home.

In no other nation is there so willing a sense of voluntary self-sacrifice as in America—that was shown in the abstinence from wheat.

Find more wheat. It came; more pork, it came; save sugar, it was done. So Americans answered the challenge of German starvation.

Good will rules the new world as fear governed the old world. Through sharing food America helps make the whole world kin.

Food control made sufficiency from shortage, kept the rein on food prices, gave the nation's full strength exercise.

Starvation by Germany challenged all the world; food conservation in America answered the challenge.

Food conservation in America has been the triumph of individual devotion to the national cause.

LABOR SHORTAGE THREATENS PRODUCTION

The Fertilizer Industry Hard Hit by the War.

The supply of fertilizer for 1919 spring sown crops is threatened by shortage of labor in the fertilizer factories. This fact is of particularly serious import to the potato farmers of the country, for the great potato sections are coming more and more to depend on fertilizer for the economical production of this crop. Thus it happens that the very factor which prevents factories running to full capacity also has effect in preventing farmers from using their own depleted farm labor supply to best advantage. Labor cannot be used to advantage on those fields which can give but half a crop.

The fertilizer industry is normally a seasonal industry. About the first of February the factories are normally in full blast, producing fertilizer for use on spring crops. Then they "die down" again for a period of several months in late spring and early summer. This requires a large floating supply of labor, a supply which has largely been eaten up by demands of the shipyards and munition factories.

Transferring the industry from a seasonal basis to a full 12 months' operation basis will certainly be economical of labor. The factories can then work at somewhat diminished daily capacity for more weeks in the year, and in this way get out the necessary tonnage. It can't be done at once, however, because factories do not have storage space enough to allow of this. Goods must be shipped out almost as fast as they are made—so that the greatest possible output by the restricted supply of labor may be assured.

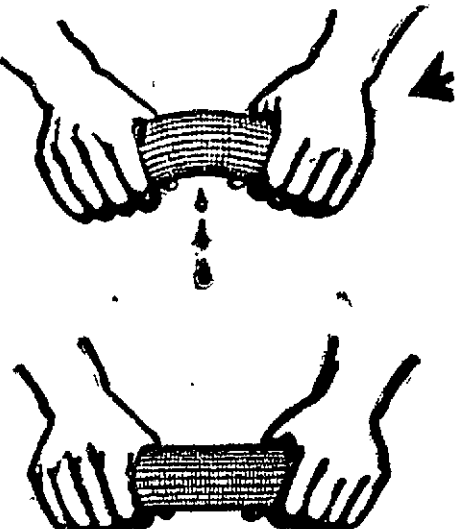

If fertilizer users the country over will order early, through accustomed channels, and agree to take the goods from the car on arrival, much may be done to help insure a sufficient supply for next spring's business. Early ordering, however, means NOW.

AVOIDING SOFT CORN LOSSES

How Proper Management Enables Corn Crop to Get Ahead of the Frost.

An ear of hard corn may break, but it never bends. An ear of soft corn bends easily, but it never breaks. Sometimes water may even be wrung out from such corn.

A "soft corn year" is disastrous. The corn can't be stored, and can't be sold. It must be fed at once—with the result that hundreds of carloads of fat hogs and fat steers must later on be marketed at the same time—to the disadvantage of all concerned.

But—why grow soft corn, when a crop of hard corn costs less per bushel?

Corn is planted when the soil is still cold, and just after the soil has been leached by the winter's rains. Available plant food in the soil is lacking. The reserves in the seed are soon exhausted, and then the plant "hangs fire"—makes no growth, remains small, splindling, and sickly—until such time as the weather warms up and soil plant food begins to become available. Available plant food, especially available phosphoric acid and ammonia, when applied in fertilizer have wonderful effect in saving time—in getting growth started early in the season.

Later on in the summer poorly fertilized corn once again "hangs fire." It waits, and waits, and is eternally slow in ripening its seed. Too often such a crop is caught, still immature, by the first killing frosts of the season. A high available phosphoric acid fertilizer applied at time of planting is a tremendous aid in ripening up the corn quickly and surely.

THE WORLD SHORTAGE OF LIVE STOCK

A census of cattle in France reveals a decrease of 17 per cent in beef animals, 38 per cent in sheep and 30 per cent in hogs since December 31, 1913. Italy has suffered a loss of 21 per cent of horses, 18 per cent for mules, and 8 per cent for swine. No one can even guess what the decrease in Germany, Austria, and Russia has been, but it must be enormous. According to a reliable estimate the decrease of live stock in all Europe is equal to one-half the amount of live stock in America today. This estimate places the loss at 100,000,000 head.

Betty's War Garden

By MYRA E. SMITH

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Betty dug savagely at a huge weed whose roots refused to come up. Red and perspiring, at length she straightened up and tossed it triumphantly on the weed heap. Just then an auto horn sounded and gay voices called:

"Betty! Oh, Betty Mason! Come here."

Betty hesitated in dismay, glancing at her earth-stained dress and hands, and thinking ruefully of her tumbled hair. Then, as she saw no way out, she advanced to the machine.

Within were two girls in dainty summer costume, who gazed in pitying amusement at the slender khaki-clad figure with its bright face. One exclaimed gaily:

"Behold the farmerette!"

The other girl spoke sharply: "For heaven's sake, Betty, don't make a fright of yourself getting sunburned and actually dirty out in that garden. Hurry up and get ready to come with us for a ride. This is Lieutenant Clayton, who is anxious to meet the farmerette we talk about so much. Bob and Jack made us promise to persuade you to complete our party. Don't you dare say you can't go."

Betty flushed miserably as she met the young officer's keen gray eyes, feeling that no detail of her disreputable appearance had escaped them. Her brown eyes were troubled as she shook her head firmly.

"I can't Katherine. You mustn't tempt me. I would be delighted to go with you if I could leave my potatoes and beans if I don't hoe them this week. And then, there is canning—"

"Betty Mason, you are perfectly absurd when you could afford to hire that kind of work done, and you might be knitting for the Red Cross."

"But I don't like to knit," retorted Betty. "And I do love to work in the garden, so I am doing my bit here."

"A very important bit, too," interposed Lieutenant Clayton smilingly. "It may sound ungrateful, but if we soldiers had to take our choice between mufflers or helmets and a square meal we would surely take the square meal!"

Katherine pouted and, glancing at her charming white hands, asked hastily, "Surely you don't expect all girls are going to toil at such dirty work as farming? I am certain I never could stand it."

"We don't expect the lilies to do anything but look beautiful. Miss Mason and I are of different stuff. As a farmer myself from the middle West I can sympathize with her. I wonder," added the lieutenant slowly, "if I couldn't suggest a solution of our difficulty. Suppose you girls go on with Bob and Jack and leave me to assist Miss Mason with her hoeing. I am sure we can finish by noon time, and you can come back for us, and we'll spend the rest of the day with you. Won't you accept a helper, Miss Mason?"

Betty was too surprised to more than gasp in amazement.

"But you couldn't! It wouldn't do to work in a garden in that uniform." "This uniform means I am in the service of Uncle Sam to help him beat the Huns, whether I dig trenches in France, or dig weeds in the garden here. Please may I help you? I really can hoe!"

It was settled in spite of Betty's protests, and the others drove off, promising to return at noon, while her new assistant, stripping off coat and hat, went speedily to work. She soon found he had spoken the truth about his ability and, although she worked rapidly, he quickly outstripped her.

Before noon the hoeing was completed and Betty had changed to a pale green dress, looking like a rose with her pink cheeks and yellow hair.

The others returned and soon were all enjoying the swift motion of the car and the cooling breezes.

Lieutenant Clayton found frequent opportunities to renew his acquaintance with Betty's war garden and its farmerette. He told her about his Western farm and of his plans for it when the war was over. He shared his worries with her over the difficulty of finding a manager who would take a real interest in it and carry out his plans until his return.

At last the time drew near when he was to go. He called on Betty one morning and announced that he had decided on a new manager for his farm. Betty was interested and asked if he had secured a good one.

"I think so," answered the lieutenant with his old twinkle. "I am sure that I have selected a good guide, and I have had a very good chance to judge the new manager. All I am anxious about is whether she will accept the place."

"She, did you say?" exclaimed Betty in surprise that changed to confusion under the officer's smiling scrutiny. "Yes, Betty, don't you care enough to invite me, and wait for me on the farm till I come back? Then we can carry out our plans together. I have no one of my own people, and I would like to feel you were on the old farm waiting for my return from 'over there.' Will you accept the position as manager Betty?"

Betty did accept it, and now, in her Western home, she cares for a larger war garden and waits for her soldier boy to come home.

is the inherent and unquestioned privilege of all.

The responsibility, though, for the attainment of that much-to-be-desired condition lies largely with the individual—invariably it comes through continuous striving after bigger and better things.

The keystone in the Arch of Happiness of many of our citizens is a constantly-increasing Savings Account here.

HOT WEATHER NECESITIES IN WEARING APPAREL

It is time now to begin to prepare your wardrobe for the warm weather that is "just around the corner". More people will take vacations this year than ever before. You will more than likely find your favorite resort crowded with strange faces, so, naturally you will want to appear at your best. To accomplish this you must be correctly and appropriately dressed.

Altoona merchants are ready with everything needed to make your summer wardrobe complete even to the most minute detail. Stocks were never so large nor assortments so varied as at the present time and styles so chic and new it is a real pleasure to the merchant to show them.

The desire to be well dressed is a commendable one; the well dressed man or women reflects a note of prosperity and well being that can be attained in almost no other way. So by all means be well dressed.

But how about the home surroundings? You will want them in keeping with your clothes; perhaps it's a new rug, carpet, rocker, bedroom or diningroom suite that's needed, new porch furniture, shades, a victrola or piano that will add to your pleasure and comfort.

Go over the whole house carefully, make a list of your needs and if your neighborhood store does not have what you want, spend a few hours shopping in Altoona stores and you will be surprised to learn how cheaply and satisfactorily your wants can be supplied.

Altoona stores are good stores to shop in every day: but by all means visit them every Thursday, "Suburban Day"—the day of many opportunities for economical shopping.

Childhood's Humorists.

Our memory goes back to the time when our idea of the foremost American humorist was a bigger boy named Eddie O'Toole, who skillfully eluding the teacher's eye, took a black lead pencil and changed the name of "The Fairy Revel," a pretty little song in the fourth-grade singing book, to "The Fairy Devel," so neatly that you'd almost have thought it was printed that way originally.—Columbus (Ohio) Journal.

It's Surprising

That so Many Bedford People Fail To Recognize Kidney Weakness.

Are you a bad back victim? Suffer twinges; headaches, dizzy spells? Go to bed tired—get up tired? It's surprising how few suspect the kidneys. It's surprising how few know what to do. Kidney trouble needs kidney treatment. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. Have convinced Bedford people of their merit. Here's a Bedford case; Bedford testimony. Kidney sufferers hereabouts should read it.

Mrs. William Fletcher, Spring St. says: Last fall I was troubled with a bad feeling in the back of my head. Finally there was an awful pain in my back and I decided that my kidneys needed attention. I had seen Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in the paper so I purchased a box and started their use. After I had taken just one half of the box I was cured and I have had no trouble since.

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Fletcher had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs. Buffalo N. Y.

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weaknesses and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is enclosed in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a small swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons which cause premature old age. New life and strength increase as you continue the treatment. When completely restored continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease. Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. Go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember to ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. In sealed packages.

New Bounty Law Approved

Wild Cat, $8.00; Mink, $1.00 Fox $2.

House Bill, No. 419, giving the State Game Commissioners the authority to issue checks direct to claimants for bounty has been signed by the Governor and after June 1st, 1919, will be the law in this State. Under the provisions of this Act a bounty of $8.00 will be paid for wild cats, $1.00 for a mink and $2.00 each for foxes and weasels.

The Skins of all animals for the killing of which a bounty is claimed must be sent to this office by the Claimant just as they are now sent when the affidavit is made before a Justice of the Peace. The skin must not be mutilated and the affidavit must clearly state when as well as where the animal in question was killed if the claimant hopes to profit by the increased bounty on wild cats and weasels as provided by this bill. Special Deputy Game Protectors are authorized by this recent Act to take affidavits of this character and are entitled to the same fee that a Justice could claim for like services, but must supply himself with a proper identifying seal at his own expense. A paid Game Protector is not entitled to such fee. All individuals in the State authorized to administer oaths can take such affidavits.

Any effort to secure the increased bounty on either a wild cat or a weasel as provided for by act through the presentation of the skin of an animal killed before June 1st 1919 is punishable by fine and imprisonment, and a false affidavit in this regard is perjury.

DEFIANCE

The following named boys recently returned from over seas where they have seen active service and are now enjoying a short and much deserved rest before settling down to steady work: Joseph Reidler, Dorsey Cutchall, Russell Rorabaugh, William Lloyd, and Thomas McElwee.

Walter Guyton, one of Uncle Sam's Sailor boys is home on a furlough. Thomas Tenley, stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, spent a week or ten days recently with home folks. Mr. Tenley has re-enlisted and expects to spend another year in the West.

We are reliably informed that we may any day expect to greet James Tenley Jr. and William Mellott as both are on this side of the great water.

Prof. D. H. Fisher, Principal of the Coaldale Borough schools was a business caller at the office of the writer on Monday evening of this week. Prof. Fisher expects to send a class of six young folks to the Broad Top High School next fall.

Miss F. Maud Beck, Principal of the High School at this place, spent Sunday with home folks at Huntingdon. Mrs. Lillian Gump, teacher of the Grammar school at Defiance, Sunday ed with her folks at Bedford.

We hear rumors that at least two of our lady teachers decided to give up teaching and go into the matrimonial business. We feel satisfied that the experience gained in the school room will not come amiss in the home making process. It is also rumored that others are thinking very seriously of launching the matrimonial boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Brumbaugh and son, Charles, spent Saturday last at Huntingdon attending to business.

Mrs. Port and children of Huntingdon were visitors at Defiance over Sunday.

Mrs. Thomas Bathgate of Ocoola Mills is spending several days with her mother, Mrs. Alice Thomas.

Over the Bridge of Sighs.

Nine times out of ten it is over the Bridge of Sighs that we pass the narrow gulf from youth to manhood. That interval is usually occupied by an ill-placed or disappointed affection. We recover and we find ourselves new beings. The intellect has become hardened by the fire through which it has passed. The mind profits by the wrecks of every passion, and we may measure our road to wisdom by the sorrows we have undergone.—Bulwer Lytton.

Exterminate The Lice

An effective remedy for lice on chicks is a small quantity of melted lard rubbed under the wings and on top of the chick's head.

The free use of kerosene or crude oil on the roosts and in the cracks of the house will help to exterminate mites.

Whitewash is effective against all vermin.

It is possible and thoroughly practical to keep the poultry flock reasonably free from lice and mites. Such practices should be the aim of every one who is endeavoring to establish a successful flock of poultry.

Market white shelled and brown-shelled eggs in separate packages. Eggs irregular in shape, those which are unusually long or thin shelled, or which have shells otherwise defective, should be kept by the producer for home use, so that breakage in transit may be reduced as much as possible.

Keep the hens confined to your own land.

Value of Learning.

Learning, if rightly applied, makes a young man thinking, attentive, industrious, confident, and wary; and an old man cheerful and useful. It is an ornament in prosperity, a refuge in adversity, an entertainment at all times; it cheers in solitude, and gives moderation and wisdom in all circumstances.—Palmer.

Sportive Fish.

The gambolling of whales is often witnessed by sailors, and Paley says that any observer of fish must acknowledge that "they are so happy they know not what to do with themselves. Their attitudes and frolics are simply the effect of an excess of spirits."

Chicks and Hot Weather

In extremely hot weather special care is necessary to prevent chicks from being overheated by exposure to the sun, confinement where ventilation is bad, or overcrowding. The brooder should be under shelter with good circulation of air around it and the number of chicks should not be greater than it will accommodate comfortably under hot weather conditions.

Skim milk, either sweet or sour, and buttermilk especially valuable feeds in hot weather, making the diet lighter without reducing its nutritive value. The milk should be fed in a drinking fountain or in a dish covered with wire netting so that the chicks can not get into it and become soiled with milk. The use of milk does not do away with the use of water, which should be given as usual.

Unless the premises where chicks are kept and all appliances used are known to be absolutely free from lice and mites, and it is certain that chicks have never been exposed to them, it is a wise precaution to paint or spray the brooder with a mixture of 4 parts crude petroleum and 1 part kerosene, allowing it to dry thoroughly before using. About once a week puffs of insect powder on the chicks when in the brooder will destroy any lice that may be on them.

How To Make Montana Steak

Mutton cooked in the following manner is sappetizing and nutritious: 1 pound lean mutton free from bone. 1 egg. ½ cup milk. 1 teaspoon salt. ½ teaspoon pepper. Few drops onion juice.

Chop the meat fine, add the other ingredients, form two small cakes, and either boil or fry them. While this dish is more delicate if the egg and milk are used, it can be made without them. In this case it very closely resembles Hamburg steak as ordinarily prepared from beef. It may be made with or without onion.

Practical Poultry Pointers

Don't keep a male bird. Hens lay just as well without a male.

Don't overstock your land.

Purchase well-matured pullets rather than hens.

Don't expect great success in hatching and raising chicks unless you have had some experience and have a grass plot separate from the yard for the hens.

Build a cheap house or shelter.

Make the house dry and free from drafts, but allow for ventilation.

Fowls stand cold better than dampness.

Keep house and yard clean.

Provide roosts and dropping boards.

Provide a nest for each four or five hens.

Grow some green crop in the yard. Spade up the yard frequently.

Feed table scraps and kitchen waste.

Also feed grain once a day.

Feed a dry mash.

Keep hens free from lice and the house free from mites.

Kill and eat the hens in the fall when they begin to molt and cease to lay.

Preserve the surplus eggs produced during the spring and summer for use during the fall and winter when eggs are scarce and high in price.

After Death, Then What?

This is the Question that man has been asking ever since Adam and Eve looked upon the lifeless body of their Abel. The answers have been many and various, but every people or whom history or tradition gives us any knowledge has held the belief that all does not end when the body returns to the earth from which it sprang. All men in all ages have felt intuitively that there was within them a spirit that was not material and have speculated on what became of it after death of the body. Today, no less than when Plato reasoned on the immortality of the soul, are men eagerly asking what may lie behind the veil that all of us must lift but through which none returns to tell us of what lies beyond. There are a few who assert that man has no soul, and that immortality is only an iridescent dream born of his "secret dread and inward horror of falling into naught." The Gazette will reprint in the next four issues views on the immortality of the soul by the four greatest thinkers in the world, Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore of the Catholic church and a great man in American affairs and whose opinions are recognized throughout the world; Dr. Paul Joire, an eminent psychologist, of France, and who makes a purely scientific argument distinct from the churchmen on the subject; Sir Oliver Lodge, English, one of the world's foremost students of matter and mind, a pioneer in wireless telegraphy and an investigator of both material and mental phenomena; and James L. Polk, President of the American society of Philosophy, who handles the subject from the broadest religious standpoint. It would be extremely difficult to find any more distinguished advocates than these four and the Gazette will print the views of these eminently qualified persons in its four issues following during the month of June.

Unoccupied Government lands are to be found in every state west of the Mississippi River except Iowa and Texas. There is also land in the states of Michigan, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

Fears that American boys would learn to like France better than the U. S. A have proved entirely without foundation.

The first requirement of young chicks is warmth—a temperature comfortable for them. Chicks hatch in a temperature of 102 to 105 F. When brooded by hens they remain under the mothers nearly all the time for two or three days. Chicks shipped in small boxes are kept warm by the heat of their bodies so long as the boxes are not exposed to near freezing temperature, but the natural heat is not sufficient when they are given more liberty.

All cockerels not intended to be kept or sold for breeders should be marketed when they reach suitable size. Such birds confined in a home-made fattening battery coop and fed a fattening ration for a week or ten days will not only increase in weight but bring a better price on the market, because of improved quality.
